BENS to Help U.S. Southern Command

The United States Southern Command (SOUTHCOM), headquartered in Miami, which has responsibilities throughout South America and the Caribbean, has asked BENS for help in conducting an evaluation of the command's strategic and operational assessment processes.

The BENS team will consist of less than 10 executives. The project would have a two day kick off in Miami--most likely during the first half of March. It would take about six weeks to complete the evaluation and draft the report, and then the team would go back to Miami to provide a brief of a day or two.

To volunteer for this important project or just get additional information, please contact a member of the BENS Southeast staff (Connie Busch, Allison Cheatham or Harry Ferris) or the BENS Project Officer, retired Navy Capt. Susan Maybaumwisniewski, T: 202-296-2125, e-mail: smaybaumwisniewski@bens.org, by February 12, 2009.
